REPORT SAYS GERMAN CROWN PRINCE IS WOUNDED

EVERY ROAD IS BLOCKED

Germans Unable to Reach Coast.

DELIVER HARD BLOWS

Invaders Strive in Vain to Break Allies' Line.

London, Nov. 3.—The Germans continue to strike hard blows on the allies' line in their endeavor to get through to the coast. Thus far they have found every road blocked, but apparently disregarding losses they continue to attack. The floods, the Belgian army and the British fleet having barred their way southward along the coast the Germans are now striking on a line stretching from Ypres in Belgium to La Basse, farther south, in France, but seemingly with no more success.

The stubbornness of the fighting along this line may be gathered from the fact that the town of Messines, which the Germans now occupy, has been taken and retaken no less than four times since last Saturday, each time with enormous losses in killed or wounded.

Attacks also have been made along the entire battle front as far east as the Vosges region, but, according to the French report, with the Germans having no more success than in the northwest.

German Army May Retire.

The belief is growing here, and it also has been expressed by those returning from Belgium, that the Germans are making a last effort to get through to the coast and that if it fails they will fall back to positions which have been prepared in central Belgium.

Although the fighting is continuous on the East Prussian frontier, in Poland and in Galicia there is no important change in the situation and it is believed none is likely until the Russian armies come up with the Germans, who are retiring from the Vistula toward the Warthe river. On this river it is considered likely that another big battle will be fought.

The backbone of the rebellion in South Africa seems to be broken. Colonel Maritz' command in the northern province has been defeated completely. Several of the raiders and most of their men have been captured. General Beyers is in flight and General De Wet has opened negotiations for surrender. It is said.

GUNS ON BORKUM ISLAND

Germans May Establish New Submarine Base.

London, Nov. 3.—A Central News dispatch from Amsterdam says that German 42-centimeter guns have been placed on Borkum island, in the North sea.

Borkum is a small island belonging to Prussia at the mouth of the Ems. It is sixty miles southwest of Heligoland. It is the most southerly of a string of islands that skirt the German coast from Cuxhaven to the mouth of the Ems. These, with several islands owned by The Netherlands, constitute the Frisian group.

The strategic value of Borkum island, which is six miles in length and two miles wide, lies in the fact that it commands the estuary of the Ems and, perhaps, might be used as a submarine base and also in the defense of East Frisia, the district of Prussia which forms the northwesternmost corner of Hanover and of the German empire.

MARTIAL LAW IN EFFECT

Great Britain Takes Drastic Action in Egypt.

Washington Nov. 3.—Martial law has been proclaimed by Great Britain through Egypt.

An official notification by the British charge d'affaires at Cairo was delivered to American diplomatic agents there.

On orders from London the commander-in-chief of the British forces took command of the general situation with orders to suppress all outbreaks.

Reports Panama Canal Closed to Navigation.

SLIDE IN PANAMA CANAL

Colonel Goethals Hopes to Clear Waterway by Wednesday.

Washington, Nov. 3.—The Panama canal has been closed to navigation by another landslide. Colonel Goethals hopes to have it open by Wednesday.

Colonel Goethals called the canal commission.

"Rapid movement of slide material in the break north of Gold Hill locked the channel Saturday."

As understood at the canal offices this slide is only an aftermath of the big slide of Oct. 14, when nearly 750,000 yards of earth and rock slowly slipped from the hillside down into the canal prism.

FIGHTING IS SAVAGE IN WEST FLANDERS

Bayonets Pierce Bodies of Many of the Wounded.

Berlin, Nov. 3.—The fighting on the northwestern flank is of a particularly savage character.

A considerable proportion of the wounded suffer from bayonet thrusts, which often pass completely through parts of the bodies of the men.

The Germans along wide stretches of the battle front in Northern France have removed the civilian populations, thereby stopping the enemy's main sources of information.

The hostile artillery, which in the earlier struggles along the Aisne showed a certain superiority in its firing as a result of this information, is now working to less advantage.

The Germans are making much use of armored trains, particularly in ascertaining how far the railroads are in operation into hostile districts and bringing up supplies of ammunition and provisions through dangerous country.

They also are being used to maintain communication with advanced cavalry divisions.

The report that Field Marshal von der Goltz had tendered his resignation as governor general of Belgium is denied.

SUBJECTS OF TURKEY ORDERED FROM RUSSIA.

London, Nov. 3.—A Reuter dispatch from Petrograd says the prefect of police has issued an order expelling from the country within a week all Turkish subjects.

Sleeping Car Tax Upheld.

Washington, Nov. 3.—The Florida tax on gross receipts of sleeping and parlor cars in the state was upheld as constitutional by the supreme court.

Panama Canal Tolls Gain.

Panama, Nov. 3.—The total canal tolls for October amounted to $377,000, a gain of $107,000 over the September collections.

Special to The Dispatch:—

London, Nov. 3, 11:10 A. M.—Rumors persist, says a dispatch from Berne, Switzerland, that the wounded man brought recently to the palace at Strassburg is the German Crown Prince.

GERMANS CONTINUE ASSAULTS ON ARRAS

Special to The Dispatch:—

Paris, Nov. 3, 11:10 A. M.—The Germans have continued their assaults on Arras suburbs to the westward of Lille and along the Belgian front throughout the night without material gain. Fighting was confined to selected points. Elsewhere the Germans seem to be awaiting reinforcements understood to be enroute. Great activity is reported on the extreme left of the German center in the vicinity of Verdun.

LONDON REVIEWS WAR OPERATIONS

Special to The Dispatch:—

London, Nov. 3, 2:48 P. M.—The Germans have withdrawn from the left bank of the Yser river south to Dixmude and have suffered repulses at Ypres, where they sought a more southerly route to Calais. The French report advances at other points along the line from the coast to German Lorraine. The Russian right wing on the East Prussian frontier has repulsed resolute attacks by the Germans. The Russian left wing in Galicia is threatened by the Austrians, who have driven the Russians across the San river.

REFEREE STOPS FIGHTING

Freddie Welsh Defeats Ad Wolgast in Eight Rounds.

New York, Nov. 3.—Freddie Welsh of Wales defeated Ad Wolgast at Madison Square Garden, Referee Billy Roche stopping the fight in the eighth round. It was an empty victory for the champion, as it was announced that the Michigan bear-cat had broken a small bone in his right hand in the seventh round.

Up to the finish Welsh had made a punching bag of the former Cadillac terror. In only one round, the second, did Wolgast show the slightest form of a boxer. In this session he bored in, delivering a series of body blows and had the Welshman guessing for an instant. It was only a flash, as Welsh came back with a deluge of left-hand jabs which completely smothered the American.

WILL NUMBER 15,000 MEN

Canada Preparing to Send More Soldiers to Europe.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 3.—Canada's next contingent of soldiers for service in Europe will consist of 15,000 men, in compliance with a request received from the British war office.

Which has asked that the second expeditionary force from the Dominion shall be ordered to bring the extra men of the first contingent which went to England some weeks ago up to the strength of an army division.

At present Canada has in the mother country a full army division of between 21,000 and 22,000 men and four additional battalions of infantry.

HAITI'S PRESIDENT FLEES

Zamor, Who Took Refuge on Boat, Has Departed.

Washington, Nov. 3.—President Zamor of Haiti, who recently took refuge aboard a Dutch vessel at Port au Prince, has departed, according to a message from the American legation there, but his destination was not given. It is believed he has gone to Curacao, a Dutch island off the Venezuelan coast. The same message said there was no necessity for landing American troops and that the city was under martial law.

TWO BROTHERS MEET DEATH

One Loses His Life Trying to Save the Other.

Barron, Wis., Nov. 3.—Frank and Phillip Hall, brothers, were killed instantly by a live wire while working on the city electric line here. Phillip had cut the 2,200-volt wires from the transformer and it is supposed that Frank picked up one of the wires and the other lying on the wet grass formed a circuit. Phillip tried to pull his brother away and received the same charge.

FRIENDS GROOMING WILSON

Believe President Will Be Candidate in 1916.

Washington, Nov. 3.—On the eve of the congressional election it became known that men close to President Wilson are working on the understanding that he will be a candidate in 1916 despite his own silence on the subject and that they have begun preparations for the campaign.

White House officials say Mr. Wilson is confident the senate and house will be safely Democratic as a result of the elections.

Predictions are made that the majority in the house will be more than fifty and that the present majority in the senate will be increased.

On the outcome of the election depends whether the President will call an extra session of congress this month. It is understood there will be no extra session if the party retains control of congress.

SENATOR GOFF COLLAPSES

West Virginian Breaks Down While Making a Speech.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 3.—United States Senator Nathan Goff of West Virginia collapsed on the stage of a local theater while making the closing speech of his campaign through the state. He was hurried to his home here.

The senator, who is seventy-one years old, against the advice of his physician and friends, made a speaking trip through West Virginia in the interests of the Republican state and congressional tickets.

WIRES REGRETS TO PRINCE

British Fleet Commander Deplores Battenberg's Resignation.

London, Nov. 3.—The commander-in-chief of the home fleet sent the following telegram to Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg concerning the latter's recent resignation as first sea lord of the admiralty:

"I have received with profound sorrow the information contained in your telegram. The whole fleet will learn the news with the greatest possible regret. We look to you with the greatest loyalty, respect and gratitude for the work you accomplished for the navy."

FLAGG IS FOUND GUILTY

New York Promoter, Accused of Misuse of Mails, Convicted.

New York, Nov. 3.—Jared Flagg, accused of violating fraudulent use of the mails in promoting stock speculation sales, was found guilty by a jury in the United States district court here.

There were seven counts in the indictment, and Flagg was convicted on six. He was acquitted on the seventh.

APOLOGIZES TO POWERS

Turkey Deplores Action of Warships.

PEACE PARTY AT WORK

Allies Will Demand Full Reparation From Porte.

London, Nov. 3.—The grand vizier of Turkey has apologized on behalf of his government for the warlike operations of the Turkish fleet under German commanders in the Black sea, but it was asserted authoritatively that the porte will have to go very much farther than this before the powers of the triple entente will agree to resume friendly relations with the Ottoman government.

It was disclosed in a statement issued by the French government that Turkey, in reply to a note presented by Russia, France and England Friday last, agreed to recall her fleet from the Black sea, but refused to dismiss the German officers from her ships. As it is believed she cannot maintain a passive attitude without doing this the ambassadors of the entente powers demanded their passports and left Turkey.

It is understood the apology of the grand vizier comes from the peace party in the Turkish cabinet and may not be adhered to by Enver Pasha, the minister of war, and his Young Turk followers. It is likely France, Great Britain and Russia not only will demand reparation for the warlike operations of the Turkish fleet in the Black sea, but will insist that Turkey's entire fleet, or at any rate the cruisers Goeben, Breslau and Hamidieh, be put out of commission until after the war. Turkey's security will be guaranteed in the meantime.

Control of Black Sea.

This would give Russia such superiority in the Black sea that there would be no danger of Turkish raids. It is suggested also that demobilization of the Turkish army would be demanded, which would mean that those troops which have crossed the Egyptian frontier must be withdrawn.

However, as the terms of Turkey's apology, which apparently was made in London, have not been published and must be considered by the entente powers before the apology is accepted or refused, there seems to be a long way to go before diplomatic relations between the Ottoman government and the allies can be resumed.

An added difficulty to the situation is that the ambassadors of the powers have left Constantinople, which will make it troublesome to ascertain whether the whole Turkish cabinet concurs in any agreement reached.

Meanwhile a report comes from Constantinople of the seizure of another Russian steamer and also that Bulgaria, which had been asked to choose the side on which she would fight, has commenced to mobilize her second line troops.

FOUR PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Present and Former New Haven Officials Indicted.

New York, Nov. 3.—Within a few hours after the handing down of federal grand jury indictments, accusing twenty present or former directors and the former general counsel of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad of criminal violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, four of the defendants entered pleas of not guilty before United States Judge Foster and were released under bond.

It was reported that several of those named in the indictment would claim immunity on the ground that they appeared as witnesses in the investigation of the New Haven's affairs by the interstate commerce commission.

Wood Alcohol Fatal to Twelve.

Bristol, Vt., Nov. 3.—Twelve persons are dead here as a result of drinking liquor which contained wood alcohol. All the victims, according to the authorities, purchased the liquor at the drug store of D. A. Bisbee, who is under arrest.

CABINET DESERTS CAPITAL

All Except Four Have Gone to Home States to Vote.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Secretary Garrison, Attorney General Gregory, Postmaster General Burleson and Secretary Houghton are the only members of the cabinet in Washington. Other members of President Wilson's official family have followed his example and gone home to vote.

Secretary Daniels and Secretary Wilson have left, the former for Raleigh, N. C., and the latter for Pennsylvania. Secretary McAdoo already is at his home in New York; Secretary Redfield is in Brooklyn and Secretary Lane is in California.

MILLION BELGIAN HOMES DESTROYED

Many Towns and Villages Razed by Artillery Fire.

Brussels, Nov. 3.—Between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 Belgians have little or nothing to call "home." They are a people almost without a country.

Foodstuffs, forage, horses, cattle and automobiles not commandeered by the Belgian army when the war broke out have been seized by the Germans. Practically every acre is now swept of everything valuable.

The lowest estimate made here places the number of Belgian homes destroyed or damaged so severely as to be uninhabitable at 1,000,000. Malines, Louvain, Liege, Namur, Charleroi, Mons, Dinant and a score of smaller places have been so shattered by the artillery fire of the opposing armies that less than half of the normal population is sheltered decently.

The seizure of cattle for the armies has left the country without beef, milk and cheese. The supply of grain ordinarily imported from the United States and Canada has been cut off.

DROWNED ON WAY TO GET MARRIED.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 3.—

Ivan Heir and his sweetheart, Miss Ruth Reckman, both of Cave-in-Rock, Ill., were drowned in the Ohio river near here.

The couple were in a skiff en route to Caseyville, Ky., where it is said they were to have been married. The skiff struck a snag and the pair sank in spite of the efforts of the occupants of a nearby launch to save them.

Three Men Die in Fire.

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—Three men lost their lives in a fire which damaged the industrial home of the Vol-unteers of America. More than a score of lodgers escaped uninjured.

The dead are John Taborn, aged fifty-two years, Columbus; R. E. Butler, fifty years, Cleveland; David Cameron, forty-eight years, Pittsburg.

DANGER IN NORTH SEA

Great Britain Warns Merchant Ships.

MINES IN ABUNDANCE

Admiralty Will Issue Directions to Neutral Vessels.

London, Nov. 3.—The entire North sea has been declared a military area and merchant vessels entering it will be exposed to the gravest dangers from mines and from the warships which are searching vigilantly by night and day for suspicious shipping craft. This action has been taken as a reply to the alleged laying of mines by the Germans in the waters north of Ireland.

The secretary of the admiralty made the following announcement of the virtual closing of the North sea to traffic:

"During the last week the Germans have scattered mines indiscriminately in the open sea on the main trade route from America to Liverpool via the north of Ireland.

"Peaceful merchant ships already have been blown up with loss of life by this agency. The White Star liner Olympic escaped disaster by pure good luck and but for warnings given by British cruisers other British and neutral merchant and passenger vessels would have been destroyed.

Ship Flying Neutral Flag.

"These mines cannot have been laid by any German ship of war. They have been laid by some merchant vessel flying a neutral flag which has come along the trade route as if for purposes of peaceful commerce and while profiting to the full of the immunity enjoyed by neutral ships wantonly and recklessly has endangered the lives of all who travel the sea.

"In these circumstances, having regard to the great interests entrusted to the British navy to the safety of peaceful commerce on the high seas and to the maintenance within the limits of international law of trade between neutral countries, the admiralty feel it necessary to adopt exceptional measures, appropriate to the novel conditions under which this war is being waged.

"Notice therefore is given that the whole of the North sea must be considered a military area. Within this area merchant shipping of all kinds, traders of all countries, fishing craft and all other vessels will be exposed to the gravest dangers from mines which it has been necessary to lay and from warships searching vigilantly by night and day for suspicious craft.

Warning to Neutral Vessels.

"All merchant and fishing vessels of every description are hereby warned of the dangers they encounter by entering this area, except in strict accordance with admiralty directions. Every effort will be made to convey this warning to neutral countries and to vessels on the sea, but from Nov. 5 on the admiralty announces that all ships passing a line drawn from the northern point of the Hebrides through the Faroe Islands to Iceland do so at their peril.

"Ships of all countries wishing to trade to and from Norway, the Baltic, Denmark and Holland are advised to come, if inward bound, by the English channel and the Straits of Dover. There they will be given sailing directions which will pass them safely so far as Great Britain is concerned, up the east coast of England to Farnes island, whence a safe route will, if possible, be given to Lindesnes light-house.

"From this point they should turn north or south, according to their destination, keeping as near the coast as possible. The converse applies to vessels outward bound."

Nine British Officers Killed.

London, Nov. 3.—A casualty list received from headquarters under date of Oct. 28 gives the names of nine officers killed and fourteen wounded. Among those wounded is Lieutenant Colonel H. L. Richardson of the Forty-seventh Sikhs, an Indian regiment.

All Except Four Have Gone to Home States to Vote.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Secretary Garrison, Attorney General Gregory, Postmaster General Burleson and Secretary Houghton are the only members of the cabinet in Washington. Other members of President Wilson's official family have followed his example and gone home to vote.

Secretary Daniels and Secretary Wilson have left, the former for Raleigh, N. C., and the latter for Pennsylvania. Secretary McAdoo already is at his home in New York; Secretary Redfield is in Brooklyn and Secretary Lane is in California.

MILLION BELGIAN HOMES DESTROYED

Many Towns and Villages Razed by Artillery Fire.

Brussels, Nov. 3.—Between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 Belgians have little or nothing to call "home." They are a people almost without a country.

Foodstuffs, forage, horses, cattle and automobiles not commandeered by the Belgian army when the war broke out have been seized by the Germans. Practically every acre is now swept of everything valuable.

The lowest estimate made here places the number of Belgian homes destroyed or damaged so severely as to be uninhabitable at 1,000,000. Malines, Louvain, Liege, Namur, Charleroi, Mons, Dinant and a score of smaller places have been so shattered by the artillery fire of the opposing armies that less than half of the normal population is sheltered decently.

The seizure of cattle for the armies has left the country without beef, milk and cheese. The supply of grain ordinarily imported from the United States and Canada has been cut off.

DROWNED ON WAY TO GET MARRIED.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 3.—Ivan Heir and his sweetheart, Miss Ruth Reckman, both of Cave-in-Rock, Ill., were drowned in the Ohio river near here.

The couple were in a skiff en route to Caseyville, Ky., where it is said they were to have been married. The skiff struck a snag and the pair sank in spite of the efforts of the occupants of a nearby launch to save them.

Three Men Die in Fire.

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—Three men lost their lives in a fire which damaged the industrial home of the Volunteers of America. More than a score of lodgers escaped uninjured. The dead are John Taborn, aged fifty-two years, Columbus; R. E. Butler, fifty years, Cleveland; David Cameron, forty-eight years, Pittsburg.

DANGER IN NORTH SEA

Great Britain Warns Merchant Ships.

MINES IN ABUNDANCE

Admiralty Will Issue Directions to Neutral Vessels.

London, Nov. 3.—The entire North sea has been declared a military area and merchant vessels entering it will be exposed to the gravest dangers from mines and from the warships which are searching vigilantly by night and day for suspicious shipping craft. This action has been taken as a reply to the alleged laying of mines by the Germans in the waters north of Ireland.

The secretary of the admiralty made the following announcement of the virtual closing of the North sea to traffic:

"During the last week the Germans have scattered mines indiscriminately in the open sea on the main trade route from America to Liverpool via the north of Ireland.

"Peaceful merchant ships already have been blown up with loss of life by this agency. The White Star liner Olympic escaped disaster by pure good luck and but for warnings given by British cruisers other British and neutral merchant and passenger vessels would have been destroyed.

Ship Flying Neutral Flag.

"These mines cannot have been laid by any German ship of war. They have been laid by some merchant vessel flying a neutral flag which has come along the trade route as if for purposes of peaceful commerce and while profiting to the full of the immunity enjoyed by neutral ships wantonly and recklessly has endangered the lives of all who travel the sea.

"In these circumstances, having regard to the great interests entrusted to the British navy to the safety of peaceful commerce on the high seas and to the maintenance within the limits of international law of trade between neutral countries, the admiralty feel it necessary to adopt exceptional measures, appropriate to the novel conditions under which this war is being waged.

"Notice therefore is given that the whole of the North sea must be considered a military area. Within this area merchant shipping of all kinds, traders of all countries, fishing craft and all other vessels will be exposed to the gravest dangers from mines which it has been necessary to lay and from warships searching vigilantly by night and day for suspicious craft.

Warning to Neutral Vessels.

"All merchant and fishing vessels of every description are hereby warned of the dangers they encounter by entering this area, except in strict accordance with admiralty directions. Every effort will be made to convey this warning to neutral countries and to vessels on the sea, but from Nov. 5 on the admiralty announces that all ships passing a line drawn from the northern point of the Hebrides through the Faroe islands to Iceland do so at their peril.

"Ships of all countries wishing to trade to and from Norway, the Baltic, Denmark and Holland are advised to come, if inward bound, by the English channel and the Straits of Dover. There they will be given sailing directions which will pass them safely so far as Great Britain is concerned, up the east coast of England to Farnes island, whence a safe route will, if possible, be given to Lindesnas light-house.

"From this point they should turn north or south, according to their destination, keeping as near the coast as possible. The converse applies to vessels outward bound."

Nine British Officers Killed.

London, Nov. 3.—A casualty list received from headquarters under date of Oct. 28 gives the names of nine officers killed and fourteen wounded. Among those wounded is Lieutenant Colonel H. L. Richardson of the Forty-seventh Sikhs, an Indian regiment.

Last Wish of a Poet.

I wish to lie on the north side of the churchyard about the middle of the ground, where the morning and evening sun can linger the longest on my grave. I wish to have a rough, unhewn stone, something in the form of a milestone, so that the playing boys
may not break it in their heedless passimes, with nothing more on it than this inscription: "Here rest the hopes and ashes of John Cale." I desire that no date be inscribed thereon, as I wish it to live or die with my poems and other writings, which, if they have merit, with posterity it will, and if they have not it is not worth preserving.—John Cale, 1864.

PEAT BOGS BURNING

Roseau County is Threatened With a Smudge for Years to Come, Destroying Value of Land

Fires in the peat bogs of Roseau county that may burn for years have started around the Thief Lakes country, according to William T. Cox,
state forester who returned from Roseau county recently. He went to Roseau county to warn the settlers of the danger. If the fires get a good start, Mr. Cox says, they will burn until the peat is entirely gone, and that nothing but bedrock and clay will be left. The value of the land will be destroyed, for it is useless without peat. The fires were started by settlers burning underbrush on lands, and since then the fires have spread over many acres. A number of ditches have been dug down to the bedrock in an effort to check the fires.

Laughed and Won.

When the British were storming Badajoz the Duke of Wellington rode up and, observing an artilleryman particularly active, inquired the man's name. He was answered "Taylor."
"A very good name too," said the duke. "Cheer up, my men! Our Taylor will soon make a pair of breaches in the walls!"
At this rally the men forgot their danger, a burst of laughter broke from them and the next charge carried the fortress.—London Answers.

CANAL ZONE IS JOBLESS

If You Are Looking for Employment
do Not go to the Isthmus for
There are no Places Open

There are no positions open at present on the Isthmus, either in the Republic of Panama or the Canal
Zone, for those seeking employment.
Constant reduction of forces on the Canal Zone, the discharge of laborers
at the United Fruit company plantation at Bocas del Toro and dull business for some of them have all contributed to swell the number of unemployed here, and it is stated that more than a thousand are now in the city of Colon alone, and the number is constantly increasing.

This does not apply to laborers alone, but to every line of work, and Americans of all classes are daily calling at this office in search of employment, doubtless led to the Isthmus by the promise, given the canal work in recent months and the reading of many articles written by certain persons and institutions in the United States who invariably picture Latin America as the land of opportunity, where fortunes and happiness are obtainable in a comparatively short time by all those who come and reach out for them.

Americans also seem to be imbued with the idea that all they have to do is to come to Latin America, and if not successful or satisfied the United States government is ready and willing to help them out and consular officers obliged by law to pay their way home and give them reasonable spending money commensurate with their social position.
This office has helped in several cases lately, but there is naturally a limit in this line.—Consular and Trade Reports.

Last Wish of a Poet.

I wish to be on the north side of the churchyard about the middle of the ground, where the morning and evening sun can linger the longest on my grave. I wish to have a rough,
unhewn stone, something in the form
of a milestone, so that the playing boys
may not break it in their heedless passimes, with nothing more on it than
this inscription: "Here rest the hopes and ashes of John Clare." I desire that no date be inscribed thereon, as I wish it to live or die with my poems
and other writings, which, if they have merit, with posterity it will, and if they have not it is not worth preserving.—John Clare, 1864.

PEAT BOGS BURNING

Roseau County is Threatened With a Smudge for Years to Come. Destroying Value of Land

Fires in the peat bogs of Roseau
county that may burn for years have started around the Thief Lakes country, according to William T. Cox,
state forester who returned from Roseau county recently. He went to Roseau county to warn the settlers
of the danger. If the fires get a good start, Mr. Cox says, they will burn until the peat is entirely gone, and
that nothing but bedrock and clay
will be left. The value of the land
will be destroyed, for it is useless
without peat. The fires were started by settlers burning underbrush on lands, and since then the fires have spread over many acres. A number of ditches have been dug down to the bedrock in an effort to check the fires.

Laughed and Won.

When the British were storming Badajoz the Duke of Wellington rode
up and, observing an artilleryman particularly active, inquired the man's name. He was answered "Taylor."
"A very good name too," said the duke. "Cheer up, my men! Our Taylor will soon make a pair of breeches
in the walls!"
At this rally the men forgot their danger, a burst of laughter broke from them and the next charge carried the fortress.—London Answers.

CANAL ZONE IS JOBLESS

If You Are Looking for Employment
do Not go to the Isthmus for
There are no Places Open

There are no positions open at present on the Isthmus, either in the Republic of Panama or the Canal
Zone, for those seeking employment.
Constant reduction of forces on the Canal Zone, the discharge of laborers
at the United Fruit company plantation at Bocas del Toro and dull business for some of them have all contributed to swell the number of unemployed here, and it is stated that more than a thousand are now in the city of Colon alone, and the number
is constantly increasing.

This does not apply to laborers
alone, but to every line of work, and Americans also seem to be imbued
with the idea that all they have to do is to come to Latin America, and if not successful or satisfied the United States government is ready
and willing to help them out and

in this line.—Consular and Trade Re-that his neighbor, George Barrett, was bent on mischief, George Eckleheimer, a farmer, living near here, emptied the contents of a shotgun through a window when he caught Barrett peek-

A Curious Superstition.

Many Greeks firmly believe to this day in a curious heathen notion, which holds that the fate of every child is controlled entirely by three mysterious spirits, who are spoken of collectively as the "moral." These three "fates" are supposed to be invisible women, who come on a visit of inspection
shortly after the birth of each child.
They always come after sundown, says the superstition, and the Greek parents when a newly born baby is in the house and a visit from the "moral" is expected carefully leave the door open and lay a feast and money offerings all ready for the "fates" when they should arrive.

CARD PARTY PRIZES

Problems Which Perplex the Hostess.
Men as a Rule Don't Like
"Home-Made" Things

The question of prizes at a card party is generally settled by the amount of money the hostess—or the club—can spend for each one. But even if a dollar is the limit of the amount to be spent, the experienced "shopper" has a good deal of variety to choose from.

However, with a dollar limit, a woman who is clever about making something dainty from a bit of lace or muslin, can attain better results than she who has to get something ready-made. With present styles, when dainty neckwear means so much to every woman, usually no more attractive prize could be won than a box containing two or three pretty jabots—embroidered, lace edged, or hemstitched, according to the skill and desire of the maker.

Pretty silk or muslin work bags are also always acceptable. The worker in raffia can fashion a flat bottom of two contrasting colors, buy a yard and a half of rich colored Oriental silk, and have as the result of her pains a really beautiful bag.

Among the things that may be bought for a dollar are books, hat pins, after-dinner coffee spoons, boxes containing playing cards and tally sheets, handkerchiefs, and many other dainty little gifts.

If you live near an old brass shop, you can pick up real bargains in the way of tea boxes, fern dishes, candlesticks and lamp shades, at about half the price you would pay elsewhere, for prices ranging from 50 cents.

For $2, of course, the range of possible prizes is widened. At that price a good pair of plain silk stockings may be bought, or a simple kid or leather cardcase, a silver pen or pencil, a small framed print—if you are sure all your guests will like it—a photograph case, or a small piece of china. And as the prize increases in money value the list includes hand bags, sunshades, enameled veil and collar pins, small pieces of silver, and almost all of the things dear to feminine eyes.

But the real problem of prize buying comes when men's prizes must be bought. Men don't as a rule, like "home-made" things; most of them have a good supply of silver pen-knives and leather card cases which loving relatives have been giving them on birthdays and Christmas, and it is really a task to know what they will like.

An expensive pack of cards isn't a bad choice among the simpler prizes for men. A good book, with an exchange slip to be used if the book has been read enclosed, is another acceptable prize. Then there are all the attractive desk articles, made of nickel and glass, that range in price from $1 to $10 apiece. A silver pencil isn't out of place, for really a man could use two or three of these. A $3 pencil, shown by one famous jeweler, couldn't fail to please the most fastidious. The pencil fits in a flat, wide case three or four inches long, point or eraser end out as your choose. The case is of dull silver, and on it in relief are shown a diminutive easy chair, below it a pair of slippers, then a tobacco pouch and pipe, and last of all a nice, fat pocketbook.

GIRLS! GIRLS! TRY IT, BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

Make it Thick, Glossy, Wavy, Luxuriant and Remove Dandruff—Real Surprise For You

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine" hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it. —Adv.

CONDITIONS VERY FAVORABLE

Weather and Labor Vie With Each Other and Logging Camps are Being Opened in the North

The Virginia Enterprise says that the call of European countries engaged in war for subjects in America to serve in their armies will cut down considerably the supply of men available for the woods this winter, according to Duluth employment men. Thousands of Austrians, Serbs, Germans and French subjects in the United States have already gone to Europe or are going in the east waiting for transportation to their native lands.

Even with this cutting down of the available supply, there will be plenty of men for the woods, it is said. Large numbers of these are already in the woods or at the head of the Lakes waiting to "connect up" for winter's work. Lumbermen are still in a waiting position because of the effects of the war on business and have not yet decided on just how extensive their operations will be. If conditions are good, they are expected to cut a large supply of timber, and many men will be needed.

Roads are now being built and camps are opening daily. The weather is very favorable at present, but activity will be greatly increased when snow comes and the lowlands freeze up.

First year the mild winter prevented extensive operations, and for that reason the supply of lumber left over is not as large as it would be if the weather had been favorable in the woods last winter. Only the best men are being employed this fall, and the companies are anxious to get experienced woodsmen who will stay at work all winter.

Employment agents say that men this fall are holding to their jobs better than a year ago, and are satisfied with lower wages, fearing that the war may cripple business and diminish the demand for labor. A boom in the lumber business is expected after the war is over, and some of the lumbermen will prepare for this by putting out a big supply of logs ready for the mills next spring. Harvest hands from the Dakotas are coming daily now and are eager to get work for the winter.

Soldering Aluminium.
When holes appear in aluminium utensils it is not necessary to discard the dishes as no longer useful, for by a simple method they can be made to take solder. Insert a brass or copper rivet in the hole, flatten both ends and then solder over both the inside and the outside surfaces in the usual manner. If you wish to solder a piece to a sound part of the utensil use a sharp awl to punch holes for holding spots of copper or brass. If the aluminium is very thick cut the holes with a small drill held in a carpenter's bit brace.

CARD PARTY PRIZES

Problems Which Perplex the Hostess. Men as a Rule Don't Like "Home-Made" Things

The question of prizes at a card party is generally settled by the amount of money the hostess—or the club—can spend for each one. But even if a dollar is the limit of the amount to be spent, the experienced "shopper" has a good deal of variety to choose from.

However, with a dollar limit, a woman who is clever about making something dainty from a bit of lace or muslin, can attain better results than she who has to get something ready-made. With present styles, when dainty neckwear means so much to every woman, usually no more attractive prize could be won than a box containing two or three pretty jabots—embroidered, lace edged, or hemstitched, according to the skill and desire of the maker.

Pretty silk or muslin work bags are also always acceptable. The worker in raffia can fashion a flat bottom of two contrasting colors, buy a yard and a half of rich colored Oriental silk, and have as the result of her pains a really beautiful bag.

Among the things that may be bought for a dollar are books, hat pins, after-dinner coffee spoons, boxes containing playing cards and tally sheets, handkerchiefs, and many other dainty little gifts.

If you live near an old brass shop, you can pick up real bargains in the way of tea boxes, fern dishes, candlesticks and lamp shades, at about half the price you would pay elsewhere, for prices ranging from 50 cents.

For $2, of course, the range of possible prizes is widened. At that price a good pair of plain silk stockings may be bought, or a simple kid or leather cardcase, a silver pen or pencil, a small framed print—if you are sure all your guests will like it—a photograph case, or a small piece of china. And as the prize increases in money value the list includes hand bags, sunshades, enameled veil and collar pins, small pieces of silver, and almost all of the things dear to feminine eyes.

But the real problem of prize buying comes when men's prizes must be bought. Men don't as a rule, like "home-made" things; most of them have a good supply of silver penknives and leather card cases which loving relatives have been giving them on birthdays and Christmas's, and it is really a task to know what they will like.

An expensive pack of cards isn't a bad choice among the simpler prizes for men. A good book, with an exchange slip to be used if the book has been read enclosed, is another acceptable prize. Then there are all the attractive desk articles, made of nickel and glass, that range in price from $1 to $10 apiece. A silver pencil isn't out of place, for really a man could use two or three of these. A $3 pencil, shown by one famous jeweler, couldn't fail to please the most fastidious. The pencil fits in a flat, wide case three or four inches long, point or eraser end out as your choice. The case is of dull silver, and on it in relief are shown a diminutive easy chair, below it a pair of slippers, then a tobacco pouch and pipe, and last of all a nice, fat pocketbook.

WE MUST LEARN TO DO
OUR OWN SAVING

Under the above heading the Duluth Herald publishes the following editorial, which we are very glad to reprint for the benefit of our readers:

"Practically throughout the history of this country, certainly ever since it began to figure largely in the world's stage, it has relied upon the people of other countries to do its saving for it.

"The richest and most lavish country in the world, the need of thrift, of counting pennies, never appealed to it—until now—because it could always borrow all it needed from thrifty peoples.

"And now a year, the greatest war of the ages, a war that will revolutionize the world, has suddenly cut off this resource. It will be generations before Europe will again be in a position to become the creditor of America.

"And in the meantime, if the United States is to continue its expansion, it must study how to save, and to become its own creditor instead of relying upon countries which are about to exhaust and impoverish themselves so completely by a disastrous war that they can no longer finance our projects.

"Speaking in a large way," says Collier's Weekly, "the principal job ahead of the United States just now is to save money. For a hundred and twenty-five years we have borrowed money from Europe. We can't do so any longer. Europe isn't going to have any money to lend. It isn't going to have enough for its own needs.

"When we wanted to build the Rock Island railroad, we borrowed the money from Holland. When we wanted to develop the Anaconda mine we borrowed from the same place. When we wanted to improve the St. Louis & San Francisco we borrowed from France. For other railroads and other improvements we borrowed from England and from Germany. That's all in the past. We can't borrow any more. For the future, if we want to build more railroads or electric lines, or develop more mines, we must supply the money from our own pockets—or go without.

"Every month the war in Europe destroys the accumulated saving of a generation. When the war is over the world will be billions of dollars poorer. That unimaginably enormous loss of wealth will be felt the world around—in America hardly less than in Europe.

"Capital will be scarce and dear for many years to come. Borrowing from Europe will be impossible, and Europe's demand for money to rebuild will be so great that she will bid eagerly for what money we have. To keep it home we shall have to outbid her.

"That means that no projects can be carried out that are not solid and sound. It means that all promotions of public and private enterprise will be increasingly difficult and expensive. It means that to meet our own bare need for capital, the people of this country must learn to save.

"The world will have to get along with few luxuries for a generation or generations. If we do not learn how to do that, we shall suffer—and suffer keenly.

"That we have this lesson yet to learn is shown by a comparison of inhabitants of the various nations that have savings deposits. The proportion in this country is ninety-nine to the thousand. No other country has a proportion of savers so small. The nearest to us is Italy with 220 per thousand; Switzerland has 554 per thousand; Denmark has 442; Norway 415; Sweden 404; Belgium 397; France 346; Holland 325; Germany 317; England 302.

"A nation of spenders and borrowers, with its borrowing sources stopped, is in a precarious situation unless it can learn to save.

"To make this country safe, three persons must learn to save where one saves now. By saving pennies and depositing nickels, we must slowly and painfully accumulate a surplus capital to take the place of that which we used to borrow but which we can borrow no longer.

"It is an absolute necessity—a lesson hard to learn perhaps, but one we must learn—shall be forced to learn.

"But it won't be so bad, after all. It means plainer living, and that means better health, more real comfort, more joy in the bare act of living, a acquaintance with the simple pleasures that are, after all, the most satisfying.

"In the end it will be good for us—physically, morally and socially.

"But save we must, for if we do not save we face financial perils.

"The quicker we get about our lesson in thrift, the better for the nation and for all of us."—Western Bank Review.

JUSTIFICATION FOR WAR

War is Ruthless in its Demand Upon Nations for the First Flower of Male Human Product

Among the various theories which try to set up some excuse or justification for war, probably the most fallacious is that war performs a useful function in killing off the unfit. The truth is that war does nothing of the kind. War is ruthless in its demand upon the nations for the first flower of their male human product.

"Those who fall in war are the young men of the nations, the men between the ages of eighteen and thirty-five, without blemish so far as may be—the men of courage, alertness, dash and recklessness, the men who value their lives as naught in the service of the nation." Thus wrote Professor David Starr Jordan three years ago in discussing the relation between war and manhood.

The "unfit" are not wanted in the armies. The problem of what to do with the vice and poverty-bred wretched hordes of London "Hooligans" was not solved when England was in sad need of more soldiers during the Boer war. "The army would not have them, simply because they were 'unfit.' Entirely worthless at home, they were not worth transportation to battlefields where they could be stood up as targets for Boer rifles.

At the present moment France and Germany are drained of their best young manhood to serve as marks for each other's bullets. These are the very men of which the future of France has the gravest need, for they are the nation's breeding men, and France is starved for lack of children. It is a wanton waste of her most precious asset. France realizes its pressing need of not less than 500,000 more births per year. That need was confessed by the French Government long before the present war began. And now the need is multiplied by sacrificing the potential fathers to the Moloch of war.

The high infant death rate of France and the low birth rate are now supplemented in their disastrous results to the nation by a several fold more disastrous death rate among her breeding men.

Vice President Brindley of Pittsburgh Steel Company, Optimistic Over Business Conditions

EXPORT ORDERS ARE HEAVY

Officers of Company are on Trip of Inspection to Several Mines Including Riverton

W. H. Rowe, president of the Pittsburgh Steel company; John Brindley, first vice president; Emil Winters, one of the directors, and W. L. McCook, vice president, are in Duluth today says the Duluth Herald. The officers of the company are here on a trip of inspection of several mines, and will go from Duluth to visit the mine at Riverton. Henry Nelson of Hibbing, is with the Pittsburgh officials.

A note of optimism was struck by Vice President Brindley. This official declared that his observation and knowledge led him to foresee only an era of good business ahead for the United States.

Said he: "We can already see unmistakable signs of a readjustment of the present business conditions. The foreign orders on hand now are heavy and the indications point to a very great increase of these orders in the immediate future. By orders I refer to steel, grain, manufactured articles of various kinds and food stuffs.

"The matter of transporting these articles is being arranged for. You know that England has even gone so far as to consent to permit certain articles to be shipped to Germany, cotton for instance. The shipping of cotton will greatly alleviate the condition in the south.

"Basically there is no reason for any financial disturbance. Our crops are large and the condition of the country at large is sound. We have permitted ourselves to become frightened and frustrated by conditions abroad. The opening of the reserve banks is going to have a beneficial effect upon business at large. This will tend to loosen money and will also have the effect of preventing any financial panics.

"The little banker in the country tells some of his customers to hold on to their money, and the word is spread forth throughout the land. The fear is broadcast that there is a business depression and that a panic is ahead.

"The manager of our Chicago office told me that he expected the coming month to be one of the largest sales months that the books of the company had shown in a long time. There is a demand for products in this country, and with the readjustment of our export business, I, for one, see a very great amount of increase in all lines of commercial endeavor."

While Mr. Brindley acted as spokesman for the visiting steel men, the other officials of the company concurred in his optimistic utterance, and declared that he had expressed the situation just about as they would have stated their views of it.

Parker's Prairie Farmer Hides $3000 in an Old Trunk and Fails to Find it When Needed

The Parker's Prairie Independent gives the following story of the disappearance of a large sum of money there:

"Sheriff Billings and County Attorney Thompson were called here Saturday to investigate the disappearance of a sum of money belonging to Vincent Prosemy. Mr. Prosemy is a son-in-law of C. R. Fraser, who lives over the Cold Storage office.

"It seems that Mr. Prosemy sold his farm at Harris, this state, recently, and came here to join his wife, who has been here for some time. He claimed to have $3,000, which he kept in a trunk, the trunk being locked. Saturday morning the trunk was discovered to be unlocked and investigation proved the money missing. Simultaneous with the disappearance of the filthy lucre, John and Lester Fraser, brother-in-law of Prosemy, also disappeared. They had been at home all Friday, but nothing was seen of them after eight o'clock that evening, and no trace of them has been discovered up to this writing.

Old English Slaves.

Before the conquest and for a long time after at least two-thirds of the people of England were denuded of all the substantial attributes of freedom. The lords had the absolute disposal of them. They might be attached to the soil or transferred by deed, sale or conveyance from one lord to another. They could not change their place or hold property—in short, they were slaves under their obligation of perpetual servitude, which the consent of the master alone could dissolve. The system was not fairly abolished until the reign of Charles II., and so late as 1775 men were bought and sold in Scotland with the estates to which they were bound.

Quickly Relieved.

THIS is how news of the Real Tobacco Chew spreads! A man tucks the little chew of "Right-Cut" away—gets the rich tobacco taste and the comfort of it and feels so good about it that he just can't help talking about it to his friends.

Mellow, sappy tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

WE MUST LEARN TO DO
OUR OWN SAVING

Under the above heading the Duluth Herald publishes the following editorial, which we are very glad to reprint for the benefit of our readers:

"Practically throughout the history of this country, certainly ever since it began to figure largely in the world's stage, it has relied upon the people of other countries to do its saving for it.

"The richest and most lavish country in the world, the need of thrift, of counting pennies, never appealed to it—until now—because it could always borrow all it needed from thrifty peoples.

"And now a year, the greatest war of the ages, a war that will revolutionize the world, has suddenly cut off this resource. It will be generations before Europe will again be in a position to become the creditor of America.

"And in the meantime, if the United States is to continue its expansion, it must study how to save, and to become its own creditor instead of relying upon countries which are about to exhaust and impoverish themselves so completely by a disastrous war that they can no longer finance our projects.

"Speaking in a large way," says Collier's Weekly, "the principal job ahead of the United States just now is to save money. For a hundred and twenty-five years we have borrowed money from Europe. We can't do so any longer. Europe isn't going to have any money to lend. It isn't going to have enough for its own needs.

"When we wanted to build the Rock Island railroad, we borrowed the money from Holland. When we wanted to develop the Anaconda mine we borrowed from the same place. When we wanted to improve the St. Louis & San Francisco we borrowed from France. For other railroads and other improvements we borrowed from England and from Germany. That's all in the past. We can't borrow any more. For the future, if we want to build more railroads or electric lines, or develop more mines, we must supply the money from our own pockets—or go without.

"Every month the war in Europe destroys the accumulated saving of a generation. When the war is over the world will be billions of dollars poorer. That unimaginably enormous loss of wealth will be felt the world around—in America hardly less than in Europe.

"Capital will be scarce and dear for many years to come. Borrowing from Europe will be impossible, and Europe's demand for money to rebuild will be so great that she will bid eagerly for what money we have. To keep it home we shall have to outbid her.

"That means that no projects can be carried out that are not solid and sound. It means that all promotions of public and private enterprise will be increasingly difficult and expensive. It means that to meet our own bare need for capital, the people of this country must learn to save.

"The world will have to get along with few luxuries for a generation or generations. If we do not learn how to do that, we shall suffer—and suffer keenly.

"That we have this lesson yet to learn is shown by a comparison of inhabitants of the various nations that have savings deposits. The proportion in this country is ninety-nine to the thousand. No other country has a proportion of savers so small. The nearest to us is Italy with 220 per thousand; Switzerland has 554 per thousand, Denmark has 442, Norway 415, Sweden 404, Belgium 397, France 346, Holland 325, Germany 317, England 302.

"A nation of spenders and borrowers, with its borrowing sources stopped, is in a precarious situation unless it can learn to save.

"To make this country safe, three persons must learn to save where one saves now. By saving pennies, and depositing nickels, we must slowly and painfully accumulate a surplus capital to take the place of that which we used to borrow but which we can borrow no longer.

"It is an absolute necessity—a lesson hard to learn perhaps, but one we must learn—shall be forced to learn.

"But it won't be so bad, after all. It means plainer living, and that means better health, more real comfort, more joy in the bare act of living, a reacquaintance with the simple pleasures that are, after all, the most satisfying.

"In the end it will be good for us—physically, morally and socially.

"But save we must, for if we do not save we face financial perils.

"The quicker we get about our lesson in thrift, the better for the nation and for all of us."—Western Bank Review.

JUSTIFICATION FOR WAR

War is Ruthless in its Demand Upon Nations for the First Flower of Male Human Product

Among the various theories which try to set up some excuse or justification for war, probably the most fallacious is that war performs a useful function in killing off the unfit. The truth is that war does nothing of the kind. War is ruthless in its demand upon the nations for the first flower of their male human product.

"Those who fall in war are the young men of the nations, the men between the ages of eighteen and thirty-five, without blemish so far as may be—the men of courage, alertness, dash and recklessness, the men who value their lives as naught in the service of the nation." Thus wrote Professor David Starr Jordan three years ago in discussing the relation between war and manhood.

The "unfit" are not wanted in the armies. The problem of what to do with the vice and poverty-bred wretched hordes of London "Hooligans" was not solved when England was in sad need of more soldiers during the Boer war. "The army would not have them, simply because they were 'unfit.' Entirely worthless at home, they were not worth transportation to battlefields where they could be stood up as targets for Boer rifles.

At the present moment France and Germany are drained of their best young manhood to serve as marks for each other's bullets. OUCH! RUB BACKACHE,
STIFFNESS, LUMBAGO

Rub pain from your sore, lame back with a small trial bottle of old

"St. Jacob's Oil"

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on your back and out comes the pain. It is harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Lumberup! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" from any drug store, and after using it just once, you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years.—Advt.

Old English Slaves.

Before the conquest and for a long time after at least two-thirds of the people of England were denuded of all the substantial attributes of freedom. The lords had the absolute disposal of them. They might be attached to the soil or transferred by deed, sale or conveyance from one lord to another. They could not change their place or hold property—in short, they were slaves under their obligation of perpetual servitude, which the consent of the master alone could dissolve. The system was not fairly abolished until the reign of Charles II., and so late as 1775 men were bought and sold in Scotland with the estates to which they were bound.

Quickly Relieved.

Little Hannah had been left in the library one morning and shortly after she came running to her mother.

"Mother," she asked, "that ink that father writes with isn't indelible ink, is it?"

"No, dear," was the reply.

"Oh, I'm so glad of that," cried the child.

"Why, dear?" queried the mother.

"Why," said Hannah, "I've spilt it all over the library rug."—Boston Herald.

WHY HE'S HEARD YOU TALK OF THAT REAL TOBACCO CHEW SO MUCH THAT I SUPPOSE HE WANTS A BITE.

THE RETIRED BANKER HAS SOME FUN AT THE GOOD JUDGE'S DISCOMFORT.

THIS is how news of the Real Tobacco Chew spreads! A man tucks the little chew of "Right-Cut" away—gets the rich tobacco taste and the comfort of it and feels so good about it that he just can't help talking about it to his friends.

Mellow, sappy tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and glucose. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

Council Allows a Number of Bills—Mayor Asks for Another Police-Man on Force

FIVE FIRE HOSE SALESMEN

Reports Read by City Clerk, Chief of Police and the Street Commissioner—Other Matters

Routine business engaged the attention of the city council on Monday evening. All were present except Alderman Hess.

Mayor Henning submitted a communication asking for another policeman. He stated that for a while six officers were upon the police force in addition to the chief. Later Officer Langner was removed. Of late Judge Warner of the municipal court has frequently imposed sentence at hard labor and it worked a severe handicap on the force to have to detail a regular officer to watch the prisoners. He asked that another officer be added to the force to have charge of such work and to do regular police duty. The council acceded to the mayor's request.

Mayor Henning gave a statement of the proceedings of the Minnesota League of Municipalities, Oct. 21 and 22, which he attended as a delegate from this city. He praised the paper read by Mayor Seenerger of St. Cloud, referred to Mankato's fire engine equipment, to its gas controversy and to other matters.

Five salesmen for fire hose companies were allotted five minutes each to address the council on the merits of their respective wares and a flood of oratory, rivaling the water which might have been shot through their hose, drenched the council. In the end the J. N. Johnson man landed the contract of 1,000 feet, the council selecting his Aetna single jacket hose at 85 cents a foot.

A TEACHER RESIGNS POSITION

Brainerd Teachers' League Asks School Board to Attend "At Home" at Whittier School

At Monday night's meeting of the school board $9,000 in school bonds were ordered retired and this action indicates in large measure how the board is alive to the interests of the community and is striving to reduce the local indebtedness and at the same time taxation. All members were present at the meeting. President R. R. Wise presided.

The resignation of H. B. Sherwood, of the science department, was received, to take effect November 21. A letter was received from the Brainerd Teachers' league asking the board to attend an "at home" to be given by the teachers of the Whittier school next Friday evening.

Northern Pacific Plans on Placing Orders for that Amount for New Equipment at Once

Equipment orders aggregating nearly $2,000,000 will be placed by the Northern Pacific railway in the near future. Requests for bids on the proposed purchases were sent out late yesterday to the principal car manufacturers of the country, says the Wadena Pioneer Journal.

The order will be one of the largest placed by the Northern Pacific or any of the railways of the northwest in several years.

The final decision of the board of directors of the company to obtain the equipment during the winter for next season is considered by business and railway men of St. Paul a strong indication of the confidence of Eastern interests in the prosperity of this section.

Passenger coaches and sleeping, observation, baggage, mail and express cars are called for in request for bids.

There will be 100 cars altogether. Each will be of steel construction of the most modern type. The cost of the sleepers and observation cars will be between $18,000 and $20,000 each, of the coaches about $17,000, and of the others, about $12,000.

The new rolling stock will be sufficient to equip completely the four transcontinental trains now being operated by the Northern Pacific, and over night Winnipeg trains.

Two additional trains are planned for the transcontinental service of the road for next season and the remaining cars will be placed upon these.

Annual Convention of Minnesota Crop Improvement Association and Mid-Winter Seed Fair

DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION

And Women's Auxiliary Will Bring Hundreds to Brainerd on December 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th

The annual convention of the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association together with the Mid-Winter Seed Fair to be held at Brainerd, December 1, 2, 3, and 4, 1914, promises to be the largest, the best attended and the most valuable of any yet held. The four-day program is especially interesting and is to be filled by speakers who are especially qualified to talk upon the assigned subject.

Tuesday and Wednesday will be exclusively Crop Improvement Association sessions. Thursday will be a joint session of the Northern Minnesota Development Association and the Crop Improvement Association. Friday will be devoted to the interest of the Northern Minnesota Development Association. Special evening entertainments have been provided and for this purpose Dr. Cyrus Northrup, President Emeritus of the University, J. Adam Bede and other prominent speakers have been provided, says the Minnesota Boaster.

The program will include Prof. J. H. Shepherd, Fargo, North Dakota; Prof. E. J. Delwiche, University of Wisconsin; Prof. Richard Wellington, Minnesota Agricultural College; Mr. J. C. Famechon, Minneapolis; Mr. W. E. Thompson, State Grain Grading Department, St. Paul; Dean A. F. Woods, Minnesota College of Agriculture and many others who are specialists along their respective lines. There are many questions of vital importance to the betterment of agriculture in Minnesota, not particularly to anyone section of the state, but the discussions will naturally trend toward the conditions of the northern part of the state, general principles applying to all sections.

There is a large array of premiums provided for the Seed Fair, which in dollars and cents will amount to nearly twenty-five hundred dollars. For the three sections provided for the corn classification, there will be five hundred dollars or more in premiums offered. In the small grains there will be offered several hundred dollars. More than one hundred dollars is being offered for clover, alfalfa and timothy. Miscellaneous seeds such as buckwheat, Canada field peas, sorghum, beans, etc., including tobacco will be provided with a very liberal list. A large classification upon potatoes suited to all sections of the state with several hundred dollars in premiums are provided. A classification for hay, not yet completed, is also being made. Nearly one thousand dollars are being offered for samples exhibited from the counties participating in the Northern Minnesota Development association.

Counties not having paid their annual dues to this association are not permitted to participate in the contest for these prizes. A separate classification for Crow Wing county which includes a large valuation is also provided. Thus it will be seen there is a Crow Wing county contest. Anyone having reasonably good grain, corn or any kind of farm seeds should immediately prepare them for exhibit and send them prepaid to the Chamber of Commerce, Brainerd, Minnesota, and plainly label each and every exhibit as well as the box or sack in which they are shipped that they are for the Crop Improvement Association premium list.

All Wards of the City Report Much Interest in the County and State Election

All wards of the city report much interest in the county and state election. At 11 this morning over 40 votes had been cast in the first ward. The vote for court house bonds is at the bottom of the county ballot.

Pequot Newspaper Handles the Dance and Boze Proposition Without Gloves—Gives Views

The Pequotian in its last issue hands out to the people of Pequot and Jenkins an article that cannot but help make the people of those two towns sit up and take notice, as follows:

"It seems funny that in these days of ultra refinement and modern civilization that neither Pequot nor Jenkins can have a dance without two thirds of the male population loading up on forty-rod-kill-me-quick-tangle foot, but such seems to be the case. They sure went the limit last Saturday night at Jenkins, when a bunch of would-be-toughs and ought-to-be-gentlemen 'sashayed' around through the crowd looking for trouble and organizing free for all among the attendants. Such a dance would have been considered a disgrace in Clark street, Chicago, even in the palmiest days of the old time rounder."

The notices of that dance should have read: "Everybody invited to come and have their faces smashed, their eyes blackened and their ribs caved in." The dance Saturday night was a disgrace to town and the better class of people in Jenkins should take some means to eliminate these rowdies from future participation in social affairs, until they are at least able to walk straight and keep a bridle on their fighting propensities."

LARGE CROWDS ARE EXPECTED

Annual Convention of Minnesota Crop Improvement Association and Mid-Winter Seed Fair

DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION

And Women's Auxiliary Will Bring Hundreds to Brainerd on December 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th

The annual convention of the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association together with the Mid-Winter Seed Fair to be held at Brainerd, December 1, 2, 3, and 4, 1914, promises to be the largest, the best attended and the most valuable of any yet held. The four-day program is especially interesting and is to be filled by speakers who are especially qualified to talk upon the assigned subject. Tuesday and Wednesday will be exclusively Crop Improvement Association sessions. Thursday will be a joint session of the Northern Minnesota Development Association and the Crop Improvement Association. Friday will be devoted to the interest of the Northern Minnesota Development Association. Special evening entertainments have been provided and for this purpose Dr. Cyrus Northrup, President Emeritus of the University, J. Adam Bede and other prominent speakers have been provided, says the Minnesota Boaster.

The program will include Prof. J. H. Shepherd, Fargo, North Dakota; Prof. E. J. Delwiche, University of Wisconsin; Prof. Richard Wellington, Minnesota Agricultural College; Mr. J. C. Famechon, Minneapolis; Mr. W. E. Thompson, State Grain Grading Department, St. Paul; Dean A. F. Woods, Minnesota College of Agriculture and many others who are specialists along their respective lines. There are many questions of vital importance to the betterment of agriculture in Minnesota, not particularly to anyone section of the state, but the discussions will naturally trend toward the conditions of the northern part of the state, general principles applying to all sections. There is a large array of premiums provided for the Seed Fair, which in dollars and cents will amount to nearly twenty-five hundred dollars. For the three sections provided for the corn classification, there will be five hundred dollars or more in premiums offered. In the small grains there will be offered several hundred dollars. More than one hundred dollars is being offered for clover, alfalfa and timothy. Miscellaneous seeds such as buckwheat, Canada field peas, sorghum, beans, etc., including tobacco will be provided with a very liberal list. A large classification upon potatoes suited to all sections of the state with several hundred dollars in premiums are provided. A classification for hay, not yet completed, is also being made. Nearly one thousand dollars are being offered for samples exhibited from the counties participating in the Northern Minnesota Development association. Counties not having paid their annual dues to this association are not permitted to participate in the contest for these prizes. A separate classification for Crow Wing county which includes a large valuation is also provided. Thus it will be seen there is a Crow Wing county contest. Anyone having reasonably good grain, corn or any kind of farm seeds should immediately prepare them for exhibit and send them prepaid to the Chamber of Commerce, Brainerd, Minnesota, and plainly label each and every exhibit as well as the box or sack in which they are shipped that they are for the Crop Improvement Association premium list.

Among the premiums are the following:

HEAVY VOTE POLLED

All Wards of the City Report Much Interest in the County and State Election

All wards of the city report much interest in the county and state election. At 11 this morning over 40 votes had been cast in the first ward. One thing causing confusion is the way the ballots on the bonds were printed. The white ballot for the new jail bonds is a separate affair. The vote for court house bonds is at the bottom of the county ballot.

Pequot Newspaper Handles the Dance and Boogie Proposition Without Gloves—Gives Views

The Pequotian in its last issue hands out to the people of Pequot and Jenkins an article that cannot but help make the people of those two towns sit up and take notice, as follows:

"It seems funny that in these days of ultra refinement and modern civilization that neither Pequot nor Jenkins can have a dance without two thirds of the male population loading up on forty-rod-kill-me-quick-tangle foot, but such seems to be the case. They sure went the limit last Saturday night at Jenkins, when a bunch of would-be-toughs and ought-to-be-gentlemen 'sashayed' around through the crowd looking for trouble and organizing free for all among the attendants. Such a dance would have been considered a disgrace in Clark street, Chicago, even in the palmiest days of the old time rounder. The notices of that dance should have read: 'Everybody invited to come and have their faces smashed, their eyes blackened and their ribs caved in.' The dance Saturday night was a disgrace to town and the better class of people in Jenkins should take some means to eliminate these rowdies from future participation in social affairs, until they are at least able to walk straight and keep a bridle on their fighting propensities."

MANY NEW LAWS ON STATUTE BOOK AS RESULT OF LENGTHY SESSION

Banking Act Most Important
Piece of Work Accomplished by Congress.

Trust Law, War Imposition
and Railroad Arbitration
Measures Passed.

LONG in the list of important bills enacted, the session of the Sixty-third congress, which closed virtually with the passage of the war tax bill, about equaled in length the longest session in the previous history of the country that can properly be termed a single session. That was the first session of the Fifty-fifth congress, which, from Dec. 5, 1887, to Oct. 20, 1888, lasted precisely 321 days. Nominally, the second session of the Fortieth congress, in which President Johnson was impeached, lasted 345 days, from Dec. 2, 1867, to Nov. 10, 1868, but as a matter of fact no business was transacted after July 27, and subsequent to that date both houses were in almost continuous recess, once for almost a month at a time, making the real length of that session only 238 days.

Without counting the winter term yet to come this congress has been in session longer than any other in the country's history, except the Fortieth, which, allowing for the 107 days of recess in its second session, was sitting 509 days. But this congress, when it finally dissolves at the close of the coming winter session on March 3, 1915, will have been in session longer than any other congress since the foundation of the government.

Even the congresses of the great war periods of the past did not approach in length of sittings the sessions of the present congress.

Many Thousands of Bills.

Practically all of the work that congress does is initiated by the introduction of bills and resolutions. Therefore, an idea of the vastness of the transactions of the senate and house is furnished through the fact that more than 27,600 measures have been offered in the two bodies since the Sixty-third congress convened in its first session on April 7, 1913. Few of these bills received any consideration in the special session, which was called to enact legislation of a specified character, the new tariff law, and most of them were left for the present session.

Of these more than 200 have become "public laws" by virtue of congressional enactment and the president's signature. There have been in the same time and through the same process 146 "private laws" written into the statute books and fifty-one public resolutions have been enacted.

The comparatively small number of enactments, as shown by the figures, is not to be taken as a criterion of the work accomplished, for many of the bills and resolutions have been compiled by committees into bills which were some times called "omnibus bills," and other legislation has been provided for by proposing the subject matters of other measures as amendments to the general and appropriation bills.

It is estimated that nearly two-thirds of the measures presented in the two houses were of the character of private bills, mostly for pensions and claims.

Fight Over Banking Act.

The most important enactment of the session came first and marked the conclusion of the long struggle over the banking and currency act. This item on the legislative program, which the president intended to have passed in the extraordinary session immediately following the passage of the tariff law, took up the first three weeks of the present session. That measure, which is not yet in practical operation, divided the country into twelve regional reserve districts, with the establishment of as many regional reserve banks, co-ordinated through a general reserve board in Washington.

These banks will issue what is expected to prove cheaper money by re-discounting commercial paper. They will perform some of the functions of clearing houses for their districts and under the guidance of the federal reserve board they are expected to furnish a smooth running machinery for mobilizing the reserves of the country to any section where money is needed. A provision in the act that may prove important to the United States during the European war in developing its export trade, particularly with South America, permits national banks of large capitalization to establish branches in foreign countries.

President Wilson and the Democratic leaders of congress regard the currency law as perhaps the biggest thing in the way of really constructive legislation that has been accomplished by the congress. It commanded many Republican votes on its final passage, and only a few days ago Representative Seney E. Payne of New York, ranking Republican of the committee on ways and means of the house, praised the measure, merely taunting the Democrats good naturedly for having drawn heavily on the work of the national monetary commission, which was dominated by Republicans.

Two of the three measures on the anti-trust legislative program were enacted in this session. They were the federal trade commission bill and the so called Clayton bill, supplementing the Sherman anti-trust act. The third measure, known as the Rayburn stock and bond bill, passed the house, but was subjected to criticism in the senate and all over the country. The majority of the committee in charge was divided into as many factions as it had members, and the bill was silently put to death without any consideration on the floor of the senate.

Trade Commission Bill.

The federal trade commission law abolished the bureau of corporations and turned over its functions and gave many new duties to a new commission to be named by the president. The commission will be named in December and will take up its work with the new year. Joseph E. Davies of Wisconsin, the present chief of the bureau of corporations, in all probability will be chairman of the trade commission. This was indicated recently when Mr. Davies resigned his place as national committeeman from Wisconsin and also the secretaryship of the Democratic national committee.

The trade commission will receive reports from all corporations other than common carriers capitalized at $5,000,000 or more. On direction from the president the attorney general or either house of congress the commission will investigate corporate activities. It will make public reports and aid the courts in formulating and carrying out the decrees of dissolution.

The Clayton bill supplements the Sherman act by specifying particular deeds as constituting restraint of trade. Price discrimination and tying contracts are made unlawful where they substantially lessen competition. Labor unions are declared lawful and human labor "not a commodity or article of commerce." The law forbids injunctions restraining persons from quitting work. It forbids holding companies where they restrain commerce or tend to establish monopoly. Interlocking directorates among banks where any one bank has deposits, capital, surplus and undivided profits of more than $5,000,000 are forbidden. The law strikes at some railroad managements by making the embezzlement of funds belonging to a common carrier a federal penalty, and the principle of personal guilt is established.

Averted Railroad Strike.

An employees' arbitration act for mediation, conciliation and arbitration in controversies between employer and employees has been enacted. According to Majority Leader Underwood of the house, it has already succeeded in averting the greatest railroad strike in the history of the country, involving every railroad west of the Mississippi and north of the Potomac river.

While many of the president's recommendations at the beginning of the session have not been put on the statute books, the outbreak of the war in Europe has caused him to make other suggestions to congress which have resulted in important remedial legislation. Money has been appropriated for the relief of American tourists abroad. An act has been passed to permit the registration of foreign built ships and another creating a bureau of war risk insurance in the treasury department as an adjunct to existing commercial bureaus.

Before the European war diverted all eyes from Mexico that country had occupied a large part of the time of congress. Money had to be appropriated for the relief of Americans in Mexico and for the support of Mexican soldiers interned on American soil. More important still, congress in the present session was called upon to justify the seizure of Vera Cruz without formal warfare. At that time an act was passed to provide for the raising of volunteer troops in the time of actual or threatened war.

One of the greatest struggles of the session hinged around the repeal of the clause of the Panama canal act exempting American coastwise ships from tolls. Many Democrats in the house, under the leadership of Speaker Clark and Mr. Underwood, opposed the president's view of this country's treaty obligations.

The last duty of this session was incidental to the war in Europe. It required the imposition of so called war taxes to make up for the deficit already resulting from the curtailment of imports from the belligerent countries. A bill substantially repeating the provisions of the Spanish-American war measure passed the house imposing taxes that were estimated as capable of producing $105,000,000 of revenue. Senate amendments materially reduced that estimate.

sales or transfers do not exceed 50,000 pounds shall each pay $6; not exceeding 100,000 pounds, $12; exceeding 100,000 pounds, $24. If the annual sales or transfers do not exceed 1,000 pounds exemption is granted.

Dealers in tobacco whose annual receipts from the sale of tobacco exceeds $200 shall pay $4.80 for each store. No manufacturer of tobacco, snuff, cigars or cigarettes shall be required to pay a special tax as a dealer in manufactured tobacco, snuff, cigars or cigarettes for selling his own products at the place of manufacture.

Manufacturers of tobacco whose annual sales do not exceed 100,000 pounds shall each pay $6; not exceeding 200,000 pounds, $12; not exceeding 400,000 pounds, $24; not exceeding 1,000,000 pounds, $30; not exceeding 5,000,000 pounds, $300; not exceeding 10,000,000 pounds, $800; not exceeding 20,000,000 pounds, $1,200; exceeding 20,000,000 pounds, $2,400.

Manufacturers of cigars whose annual sales do not exceed 100,000 cigars shall each pay $3; not exceeding 200,000 cigars, $6; not exceeding 400,000 cigars, $12; not exceeding 1,000,000 cigars, $30; not exceeding 5,000,000 cigars, $300; not exceeding 10,000,000 cigars, $800; not exceeding 20,000,000 cigars, $1,200; exceeding 20,000,000 cigars, $2,400.

Manufacturers of cigarettes whose annual sales do not exceed 1,000,000 cigarettes shall each pay $12; not exceeding 2,000,000 cigarettes, $24; not exceeding 5,000,000 cigarettes, $30; not exceeding 10,000,000 cigarettes, $80; not exceeding 20,000,000 cigarettes, $1,200; exceeding 20,000,000 cigarettes, $2,400.

"In arriving at the amount of license tax to be paid hereunder and in the levy and collection of such tax," the law says, "each person, firm or corporation engaged in the manufacture of cigars, cigarettes (including little cigars) or tobacco shall be considered and deemed a single manufacturer."

The law says regarding special tax violations: "And every person who carries on any business or occupation for which special taxes are imposed by this act, without having paid the special tax herein provided, shall, besides being liable to the payment of such special tax, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall pay a fine of not more than $500, or both, at the discretion of the court. Provided, that the special taxes imposed by this act and payable during the special tax year ending June 30, 1916, shall be collected and paid proportionately for the period during which such taxes shall remain in force during said year."

Special Stamp Taxes.

On and after Dec. 1, 1914, for bonds, debentures, certificates of indebtedness and certificates of stock a stamp tax of 5 cents on each $100 of value is provided. Government and municipal bonds are exempt, as are stocks and bonds of building and loan associations and mutual ditch or irrigation companies. On all sales or agreements to sell or memoranda of sales or deliveries or transfers of shares or certificates of stock 2 cents on each $100 of value.

These provisos are made: "That it is not intended by this act to impose a tax upon an agreement evidencing a deposit of stock certificates as collateral security for money loaned thereon, which stock certificates are not actually sold, nor upon such stock certificates so deposited: Provided further, that in case of sale where the evidence of transfer is shown only by the books of the company the stamp shall be placed upon such books, and where the change of ownership is by transfer certificate the stamp shall be placed upon the certificate, and in cases of an agreement to sell or where the transfer is by delivery of the certificate assigned in blank there shall be made and delivered by the seller to the buyer a bill or memorandum of such sale, to which the stamp shall be affixed, and every bill or memorandum of sale or agreement to sell before mentioned shall show the date thereof, the name of the seller, the amount of the sale and the matter or thing to which it refers."

Upon each sale, agreement of sale or agreement to sell any products or merchandise at any exchange or board of trade or other similar place, either for present or future delivery, a stamp of 1 cent for each $100 in value is levied.

Promissory notes and on each renewal are taxed 2 cents for $100 value. Express and freight bills of lading must carry a one cent stamp. Regarding newspapers the law says: "A consignment of newspapers to any one point or to different points by the same train or conveyance when inclosed in one general bundle at the point of shipment shall be considered as one shipment, and in lieu of a bill of lading therefor the publisher of such newspaper shall file on or before the fifteenth day of each month with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which such newspaper is published a report under oath showing the number of such shipments during the preceding month, to which report such publisher shall affix and cancel stamps equal in value to 1 cent for each shipment so reported: Provided further, that the report herein required shall not include shipments of newspapers delivered to points within the county in which the same are published."

The penalty for failing to stamp bills of lading is a fine of $50. Regarding telegraph and telephone messages, the law reads: "It shall be the duty of every person, firm or corporation owning or operating any telegraph or telephone line or Jailbird.

The period of restraint in duration suffered by one Thomas Barcus in consequence of conduct riotous, unseemly, and in general prejudicial to the public peace of the New Bedford waterfront at half-past four in the morning, proved in the upshot far more brief than had been fondly hoped, not only by his just judge, but, singularly enough, by the misdeedant himself.

Taking everything gravely into consideration, including a person anything but prepossessing, the judge reckoned that, in default of a fine of one hundred dollars, a ten-day layup for repairs and repentance was not too much to mete out to the prisoner at the bar.

He was sentenced at 10 a. m. and it was little short of 10 p. m. when his post-prandial repose was disturbed by the rattle of a key in the lock of the door to his cell.

Sitting up, Mr. Barcus rubbed his eyes and combed his hair with his fingers.

"What did I tell you?" he observed resignedly. "It begins again already."

Conducted with every evidence of disrepute on the part of his jailers to the office of the warden, he was acquainted with the fact that his fine had been paid by no one less than the judge himself; then present in portly and solicitous person.

"If only you had told me you were a friend of Mr. Digby's," the judge hastened to say as soon as the two were ensconced in the privacy of the judicial limousine, "I would have known better how to guide myself in this unfortunate affair."

"And if you will be good enough to indicate how else I may serve you?" "Digby didn't offer any suggestions in his wire, I gather."

"One moment: I have it here." "Naturally I'd like a bath and a change of clothes," Barcus pursued while the judicial breast-pocket was being explored; "and I could do with transportation to New York by the first train out of this God-forsaken hole, and—"

"This is what Mr. Digby says," the judge interrupted, laboriously deciphering the message by the light of a match: "Please see to immediate release of one Thomas Barcus, probably in jail in your jurisdiction for rioting on waterfront this morning. Pay his fine and instruct him to report to me in New York at earliest feasible hour. Give him all the money he wants and look to me for remuneration."

"Eh?" Barcus interrupted, sitting up smartly; "what's that last again?"

Patently the judge repeated the sentence from the message. "Thanks. Please don't read farther. You might come to something that would spoil it. It's almost too beautiful as it stands," Barcus observed. "Law owes me five thousand or so liquidated damages—but I'll be reasonable. Frisk this burg for a fifth of that sum before train time—and I promise to ask nothing more!"

His private comment was: "I've suspected that this was a fairy-tale all along. Now I know it is!"

And this phase of incredulity persisted in coloring the complexion of his mind until the moment, some hours later, when the train connecting at Providence with the Midnight Express for New York pulled out of New Bedford bearing a transformed Barcus—almost impenetrably disguised in a fall did Barcus come down to earth.

He demonstrated his return to common sense by making a round breakfast in Grand Central station before looking up the residence of Digby in the telephone directory.

The information he gathered from the voice that answered the name of Mr. Digby over the telephone shook only momentarily Barcus' innate conviction that intimate acquaintance with battle, murder and sudden death was the inevitable reward of association with this friend of his heart.

"Alan being married to Rose Trine in Jersey City at this very minute!" he breathed skeptically as he emerged from the booth memorizing the address of the alleged officiating clergyman. "I don't believe it; it's too sudden."

MANY NEW LAWS ON STATUTE BOOK

AS RESULT OF LENGTHY SESSION

Banking Act Most Important

Piece of Work Accomplished by Congress.

Trust Law, War Imposition

and Railroad Arbitration

Measures Passed.

LONG in the list of important bills enacted, the session of the Sixty-third congress, which closed virtually with the passage of the war tax bill, about equaled in length the longest session in the previous history of the country that can properly be termed a single session. That was the first session of the Fifty-third congress, which, from Dec. 5, 1887, to Oct. 20, 1888, lasted precisely 321 days. Nominally, the second session of the Fortieth congress, in which President Johnson was impeached, lasted 345 days, from Dec. 2, 1867, to Nov. 10, 1868, but as a matter of fact no business was transacted after July 27, and subsequent to that date both houses were in almost continuous recess, once for almost a month at a time, making the real length of that session only 238 days.

Without counting the winter term yet to come this congress has been in session longer than any other in the country's history, except the Fortieth, which, allowing for the 107 days of recess in its second session, was sitting 599 days. But this congress, when it finally dissolves at the close of the coming winter session on March 3, 1915, will have been in session longer than any other congress since the foundation of the government.

Even the congresses of the great war periods of the past did not approach in length of sittings the sessions of the present congress.

Many Thousands of Bills.

Practically all of the work that congress does is initiated by the introduction of bills and resolutions. Therefore, an idea of the vastness of the transactions of the senate and house is furnished through the fact that more than 27,000 measures have been offered in the two bodies since the Sixty-third congress convened in its first session on April 7, 1913. Few of these bills received any consideration in the special session, which was called to enact legislation of a specified character, the new tariff law, and most of them were left for the present session.

The house, having the larger membership, received the larger number of bills and resolutions, the total reaching more than 20,300. In the senate there were introduced more than 7,300 bills and resolutions.

Of these more than 200 have become "public laws" by virtue of congressional enactment and the president's signature. There have been in the same time and through the same process 146 "private laws" written into the statute books and fifty-one public resolutions have been enacted.

The comparatively small number of enactments, as shown by the figures, is not to be taken as a criterion of the work accomplished, for many of the bills and resolutions have been compiled by committees into which were sometimes called "omnibus bills," and other legislation has been provided for by proposing the subject matters of other measures as amendments to the general and appropriation bills.

It is estimated that nearly two-thirds of the measures presented in the two houses were of the character of private bills, mostly for pensions and claims.

The session has seen the enactment of an extraordinarily long list of measures generally important to the whole country. But, long as that list is, it falls short in many striking particulars of the almost unheard of legislative program mapped out by President Wilson in his annual address to the two houses of congress on Dec. 2, the day after the convening of the session.

Fight Over Banking Act.

The most important enactment of the session came first and marked the conclusion of the long struggle over the banking and currency act. This item on the legislative program, which the president intended to have been passed in the extraordinary session immediately following the passage of the tariff law, took up the first three weeks of the present session. That measure, which is not yet in practical operation, divided the country into twelve regional reserve districts, with the establishment of as many regional reserve banks, co-ordinated through a general reserve board in Washington.

These banks will issue what is expected to prove cheaper money by rediscounting commercial paper. They will perform some of the functions of clearing houses for their districts and under the guidance of the federal reserve board they are expected to furnish a smooth running machinery for mobilizing the reserves of the country to any section where money is needed. A provision in the act that may prove important to the United States during the European war in developing its export trade, particularly with South America, permits national banks of large capitalization to establish branches in foreign countries.

President Wilson and the Democratic leaders of congress regard the currency law as perhaps the biggest thing in the way of really constructive legislation that has been accomplished by Dealers in tobacco whose annual receipts from the sale of tobacco exceeds $200 shall pay $4.80 for each store. Manufacturers of tobacco whose annual sales do not exceed 100,000 pounds shall each pay $6; not exceeding 200,000 pounds, $12; not exceeding 400,000 pounds, $24; not exceeding 1,000,000 pounds, $30; not exceeding 5,000,000 pounds, $60; not exceeding 10,000,000 pounds, $80; not exceeding 20,000,000 pounds, $120; exceeding 20,000,000 pounds, $240.

Manufacturers of cigars whose annual sales do not exceed 100,000 cigars shall each pay $3; not exceeding 200,000 cigars, $6; not exceeding 400,000 cigars, $12; not exceeding 1,000,000 cigars, $30; not exceeding 5,000,000 cigars, $60; not exceeding 10,000,000 cigars, $80; not exceeding 20,000,000 cigars, $120; exceeding 20,000,000 cigars, $240.

"In arriving at the amount of license tax to be paid hereunder and in the levy and collection of such tax," the law says, "each person, firm or corporation engaged in the manufacture of cigars, cigarettes (including little cigars) or tobacco shall be considered and deemed a single manufacturer."

The law says regarding special tax violations:

"And every person who carries on any business or occupation for which special taxes are imposed by this act, without having paid the special tax herein provided, shall, besides being liable to the payment of such special tax, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall pay a fine of not more than $500, or be imprisoned not more than six months, or both, at the discretion of the court. Provided, that the special taxes imposed by this act and payable during the special tax year ending June 30, 1916, shall be collected and paid proportionately for the period during which such taxes shall remain in force during said year."

Special Stamp Taxes.

On and after Dec. 1, 1914, for bonds, debentures, certificates of indebtedness and certificates of stock a stamp tax of 5 cents on each $100 of value is provided. Government and municipal bonds are exempt, as are stocks and bonds of building and loan associations and mutual ditch or irrigation companies. On all sales or agreements to sell or memoranda of sales or deliveries or transfers of shares or certificates of stock 2 cents on each $100 of value.

These provisions are made:

"That it is not intended by this act to impose a tax upon an agreement evidencing a deposit of stock certificates as collateral security for money loaned thereon, which stock certificates are not actually sold, nor upon such stock certificates so deposited: Provided, that in case of sale where the evidence of transfer is shown only by the books of the company the stamp shall be placed upon such books, and where the change of ownership is by transfer certificate the stamp shall be placed upon the certificate, and in cases of an agreement to sell or where the transfer is by delivery of the certificate assigned in blank there shall be made and delivered by the seller to the buyer a bill or memorandum of such sale, to which the stamp shall be affixed, and every bill or memorandum of sale or agreement to sell before mentioned shall show the date thereof, the name of the seller, the amount of the sale and the matter or thing to which it refers."

Upon each sale, agreement of sale or agreement to sell any products or merchandise at any exchange or board of trade or other similar place, either for present or future delivery, a stamp of 1 cent for each $100 in value is levied.

Promissory notes and on each renewal are taxed 2 cents for $100 value.

Express and freight bills of lading must carry a one cent stamp.

Regarding newspapers the law says: "A consignment of newspapers to any one point or to different points by the same train or conveyance when inclosed in one general bundle at the point of shipment shall be considered as one shipment, and in lieu of a bill of lading therefor the publisher of such newspaper shall file on or before the fifteenth day of each month with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which such newspaper is published a report under oath showing the number of such shipments during the preceding month, to which report such publisher shall affix and cancel stamps equal in value to 1 cent for each shipment so reported: Provided further, that the report herein required shall not include shipments of newspapers delivered to points within the county in which the same are published."

The penalty for failing to stamp bills of lading is a fine of $50.

Regarding telegraph and telephone messages, the law reads:

"It shall be the duty of every person, firm or corporation owning or operating any telegraph or telephone line or

CHAPTER XXIX.

Jailbird.

The period of restraint in duration suffered by one Thomas Barcus in consequence of conduct riotous, unseemly, and in general prejudicial to the public peace of the New Bedford waterfront at half-past four in the morning, proved in the upshot far more brief than had been fondly hoped, not only by his just judge, but, singularly enough, by the misdeedant himself.

Taking everything gravely into consideration, including a person anything but prepossessing, the judge reckoned that, in default of a fine of one hundred dollars, a ten-day layup for repairs and repentance was not too much to mete out to the prisoner at the bar.

He was sentenced at 10 a. m. and it was little short of 10 p. m. when his post-prandial repose was disturbed by the rattle of a key in the lock of the door to his cell.

Sitting up, Mr. Barcus rubbed his eyes and combed his hair with his fingers.

"What did I tell you?" he observed resignedly. "It begins again already."

Conducted with every evidence of disesteem on the part of his jailers to the office of the warden, he was acquainted with the fact that his fine had been paid by no one less than the judge himself; then present in portly and solicitous person.

"If only you had told me you were a friend of Mr. Digby's," the judge hastened to say as soon as the two were ensconced in the privacy of the judicial limousine, "I would have known better how to guide myself in this unfortunate affair."

"And if you will be good enough to indicate how else I may serve you in his wire, I gather?"

"One moment: I have it here."

"Naturally I'd like a bath and a change of clothes," Barcus pursued while the judicial breast-pocket was being explored; "and I could do with transportation to New York by the first train out of this God-forsaken hole, and—"

"This is what Mr. Digby says," the judge interrupted, laboriously deciphering the message by the light of a match: "Please see to immediate release of one Thomas Barcus, probably in jail in your jurisdiction for rioting on waterfront this morning. Pay his fine and instruct him to report to me in New York at earliest feasible hour. Give him all the money he wants and look to me for remuneration."

"Eh?" Barcus interrupted, sitting up smartly; "what's that last again?"

Patiently the judge repeated the sentence from the message.

"Thanks. Please don't read farther. You might come to something that would spoil it. It's almost too beautiful as it stands," Barcus observed. "Law owes me five thousand or so liquidated damages—but I'll be reasonable. Frisk this burg for a fifth of that sum before train time—and I promise to ask nothing more!"

His private comment was: "I've suspected that this was a fairy-tale all along. Now I know it is!"

And this phase of incredulity persisted in coloring the complexion of his mind until the moment, some hours later, when the train connecting at Providence with the Midnight Express for New York pulled out of New Bedford bearing a transformed Barcus—almost impenetrably disguised in a
